CORRESPONDENTS IN CONFLICTS

EXCHANGE PROGRAM FOR JOURNALISTS

Our mission is:

- To promote cross-border co-operation between journalists from Germany and Armenia
- To create a lasting network of journalists and war-reporters
- To raise awareness of the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict and other conflicts in Eastern Partnership countries

Your part in our project:

Would you like to research war and conflict related topics, while working together with colleagues and experts from Germany and Armenia? We will put you in contact with the relevant stakeholders and NGOs, and support you in your research. The study trip to Yerevan, Armenia will take place from October 1st to October 8th 2024.

The costs for the flights (from Dortmund), the program, and the hotel (in double-rooms) will be covered. Please plan your own costs for meals and the airport transfer to Dortmund. Flight costs can only be covered for the route from Dortmund to Yerevan and back on the project days (01.10.2024-08.10.2024) - other travel plans must be covered by yourself. If needed, booking a single-room is possible with an additional fee.

After your participation in the research trip, we expect to be able to publish at least one article on the Yerevan Press Club site. Further publications in various media from your side are welcome.

Our project activities:

October 2024: Armenian and German journalists will visit the partner country and take part in networking meetings, expert discussions and workshops. The trip will give you the chance to conduct your research and to work on your publications.

December 2024: Publication of articles and contributions in different kinds of media. Having specific ideas as to where your contributions can be published, would be greatly appreciated. In addition, all participants should publish at least one article on the Yerevan Press Club site in English. We can readily offer editing and translation support with this.

Who can apply?

Journalists from Germany, who are interested, or have already gained, some experience in covering war-related topics, and want to deepen their war-reporting expertise. When reviewing applications, we attach great importance to specific research ideas and realisation, as well as to a balanced gender representation. The project language is English.

How to apply?

Deadline for your application: June 16, 2024. Please apply with your letter of motivation, a CV and a max. one-page outline of your research idea. Please also mention some initial ideas where you could publish your article (besides the Yerevan Press Club site). Please submit your application in English.
